

Havanese

This little dog breed is considered to be a drop coated breed meaning that his coat parts down the middle of its back and then grows downwards towards the floor. To get the coat to do this it needs to be brushed and combed daily with monthly baths. A clean coat mats less and keeps the skin in good shape.

Sometimes it is difficult to keep up with this coat so people will have the dog cut in a way that makes it easier to take care of. If this is the case you can use a #3 or #4 guide comb to cut some hair off. You can adjust the length shorter or longer depending on personal preference. Recommended grooming is every 4 to 6 weeks.

Go over the head either with the same guide comb as the body or go up one blade number to leave a little more hair on top.

Trim feet round with scissors up to the toe nails.
